BROADSTAIRS PAVILION, NOVEMBER 1992

We'll sell six cars this year. (That's one more than last year.)

That's progress for you. Not content with selling five cars in a year, Volkswagen have really stretched themselves and introduced a sixth.

The Corrado. A sports coupé with the accent on build. And so responsive, you may never find out how good a driver you are.

CORRADO

Also hot off the line (the production line, that is) comes the new catalytic Polo. New fuel-injected engine. New servo brakes.

New uprated suspension. New headlights. New bumpers. New interior. Same old Volkswagen reliability.

Talking of which, let's not forget that trusty favourite, the Golf.

NEW CATALYTIC POLO

The original hatchback, with ten million of them buzzing around, it's yet to be overtaken.

No less tried and true is the Jetta. It sits five. Five adults. Five 6 foot something adults. And, at 23.1 cubic feet, has the biggest boot in its class.

GOLF

Not to be outclassed is the Scirocco. Four-square stance, lean of line, beautifully balanced suspension. A real sport this, it'll forgive you just about anything.

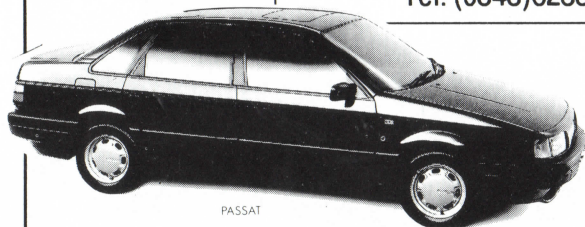

JETTA

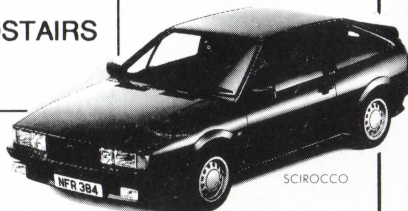

Last comes the Passat. Last but by no means least. Not when it has more interior room than any car in its class. More room, even, than many so-called bigger saloons.

So there you have it. Should be a bumper year.

BRIGADOON

It is May 1935 .....

Two Americans, Tommy Albright and Jeff Douglas are on a hunting trip to Scotland.

Lost in an early morning mist in the remote highlands, they discover a village, Brigadoon.

"Down in Machonnachy Square" it is Market day and the villagers are preparing to celebrate a wedding later that day. Jeannie MacKeith is to be married to Charlie Cameron and her sister Fiona is busy buying food for the celebrations.

Tommy and Jeff are surprised at the quaint dress of the villagers and wonder why they will not take money when they wanted to buy refreshments. When they are about to leave the village they meet Fiona and Meg Brockie. As the story reveals, it is clear that Meg has taken a shine to Jeff and romance is in the air for Fiona and Tommy.

His fascination for the village leads Tommy to ask some awkward questions, but a visit to Mr Murdoch, the village schoolteacher, reveals the answers to the mysteries of Brigadoon.

As ever, the path of true romance is never smooth and Harry Ritchie, who is in love with Jeannie declares "If I canna have Jeannie, then I shall leave Brigadoon and the miracle will be over....."

How does it all end ?

Sit back and enjoy Brigadoon and all will be revealed.
